This Week At A Glance!

This week will be about setting up routines and procedures. We will be getting to know each other through various games and activities.

Over the next few weeks we will ease in to the subjects with lots of review.

Please note that students will have books to take home this week, of their choice. This may need parental help in reading. As the weeks follow students will be directed to “just right”, text to take home.

In math I will be sending review, and games throughout the year.

If I have any concerns about your child’s learning, I will be in contact.

Volunteers!

If you are interested in volunteering in our classroom or the school this year, please let me know in the communication binder.
